

What to bring and say during a second job interview

01/19/2015 | Forbes

Job seekers called for a second interview should bring samples of past work and be ready with specific reasons why they are the best candidate, career coach Lisa Quast advises. "By reminding the hiring manager of the key aspects they're looking for and explaining to him or her why you are the person they should hire, you are helping to make their decision easier by providing your differentiators," Quast writes.

View Full Article in: Forbes

